

Dramatic Script

Emily Bridger, St. John's

Our Hell is a Good Life (an excerpt)

Kat gets on her phone, posts the selfie which is illuminated on the screen behind them. The caption reads "finding my centre/waiting 4movers lol #selfie #bliss" Kat sits on the yoga mat, cross-legged, closes her eyes, places her hands on her knees with her palms facing up to the sky - typical meditating pose. She fidgets. She checks her phone. No likes on that picture. She closes her eyes again. Let's out a deep breath. Then another. The deep breaths evolve into agitated moans as she opens her eyes again, checks her phone. Finally she gets up and fiddles with the music player.

KAT

(sheepishly) Can you please like my selfie?

ANGELA

In a minute. I'm kind of busy.

Kat picks up her phone. Once again, we see her selfie illuminated on the screen behind them. She refreshes - still no likes. She deletes the selfie.