

Junior Division, Poetry (15 years & under)

Gabriel Ryan, Stephenville

Ocean

The ocean is mysterious
Oh how it makes me curious
It's deep its dark and full of secrets
How we've barely scratched the surface

I'd always read about the creatures
And all their unique features
A goblin shark extending its mouth
Or all the predators of the south

Crevasses and mountains hidden underwater
Gigantic predators that can eat you whole
Some think it's scary, I find it intriguing
How we've barely scratched the surface.